Whether it's a classroom, a kid's group or an adult group, we could all use more education about water. Surveys show that many adults do not know where their drinking water comes from or even where water goes when it leaves their home. Our knowledge about our rivers and lakes isn't any better. Very few people know what watershed they live in, where water pollution comes from and where the water in a storm drain goes. If you would like to change this, consider bringing in a speaker. Waukesha County can provide a speaker for your classroom or club that could answer all these questions. And the best part is it's free! Call Jayne Jenks with Waukesha County at 896-8305 to schedule a speaker for water education today.
